*‘...In this world
nothing can be said
to be certain, except death and taxes.’*

A famous quote by Benjamin Franklin... cheers Ben!

You’re probably not bothered about taxes at the moment – but what do you think about the big one, death?

Do we live, die, and then rot in the ground? Are we reincarnated? Is there heaven or hell? How do we know what lies beyond the grave?

None of us have been there, so we’re just left guessing.

Can anyone really know for sure?

Perhaps if someone died, was buried, and then burst out of the grave a few days later and told us?

It would be the biggest reveal in human history.

Welcome to Easter.

Easter claims that Jesus, God’s Son, did just that. There were loads of eyewitnesses that saw him alive again. Even sceptics, his own brother, and a sworn enemy of Christianity claimed to see Jesus alive from the dead.

In fact, Easter claims that the reason Jesus came was to die and rise for us.

It’s either fact or fiction.

Why don’t you take a look at the evidence?
