Which of these best describes your Christmas shopping?

1. I leave it as late as humanly possible
2. August is a good time to start...

Maybe you land a healthy somewhere in between the two?

Whether you're an online shopper, a bargain hunter or a box-of-chocs-and-I'm-sorted-er, we all search for the perfect gift.

Sloth socks. Bath bombs. Cool gadgets. Pug mugs... Whether it's something that shows we listen or something that will make someone laugh. We search because we care and want that person to know they are loved.

It's timely that all this is going on at Christmas. The searching and the finding, the giving and the receiving. Because, when you strip back everything else – it's what Christmas is all about.

It's about God – and his search for us. It's about God – and his love for us. It's about God – and his gift, offered to us, offered to you.
